

HELEN NEWLING LAWSON AUTHOR & SPEAKER

PRACTICAL ADVICE. BEAUTIFUL RESULTS.

Nearly every gardener struggles with deer. Deer-Resistant Designs, the companion lecture to the upcoming book from St. Lynn's Press, gives practical and actionable advice on how to create complete planting plans using only deer-resistant plants.

Helen covers everything from how to identify the kinds of plants deer don't like, to how to find the best plants for your area. Then, she'll show you how to create complete planting plans, including trees, shrubs, perennials, annuals, bulbs, foliage plants, grasses and groundcovers, all selected to look and grow together harmoniously. Whether you like a cottage garden or a formal design, grow in sun or shade, need to cover a dry slope or deal with a wet site, she'll have tips for creating a design to fit your style, growing conditions, and site challenges.

ABOUT HELEN

Helen is a lifelong gardener, originally from the Garden State (aka New Jersey), but now digging in Georgia clay. She is a marketing consultant for the green industry, a Master Gardener Extension Volunteer, and a Georgia Certified Plant Professional. Her articles and photos have appeared in gardening publications throughout the Southeast. Her book, Deer-Resistant Designs, is scheduled for publication in Spring 2020.
